

Pacquiao on Two-day Hong Kong Tour Ahead of Clash in Cotai II

Fighter of the Decade meets media and Filipino compatriots, and takes in some sights before Nov. 23 boxing extravaganza

(Macao, Oct. 27, 2014) – Fighter of the Decade and Filipino icon Congressman Manny “Pacman” Pacquiao (56-5-2, 38 KOs), boxing's only eight-division world champion, went on a two-day tour of Hong Kong Oct. 26-27, promoting his upcoming fight against New York's undefeated WBO junior welterweight champion Chris Algieri (20-0, 8 KOs) at Clash in Cotai II Nov. 23 at The Venetian® Macao.

Pacquiao made a special appearance Sunday at Statue Square in Central to meet some of the members of Hong Kong's Filipino community. The national icon received a warm welcome from the excited group who are part of the community of overseas Filipino workers making a living in Hong Kong. After the meet and greet session, he was off to Victoria Harbour to explore the city by boat on the well-known Aqua Luna, one of Hong Kong's iconic red-sailed Chinese junks featuring modern design upgrades, and took the chance to meet with media from mainland China, Hong Kong and Macao.

Later that evening, Pacquiao met with the respective representatives from the Philippine Consulate Generals of Hong Kong and Macao, at a meet and greet cocktail. Also in attendance were some of Hong Kong's Filipino business professionals and community leaders.

On Monday, Pacquiao met with Hong Kong's undefeated Top-Five super flyweight contender Rex “The Wonder Kid” Tso (14-0, 9 KOs); and Macao's first professional boxer, the undefeated super welterweight prospect "The Macao Kid" Ng Kuok Kun (5-0, 2 KOs) at a workout session. Pacquiao supported the two rising professionals with some helpful tips, wishing them good luck for their upcoming bouts at The Venetian Macao. The workout session also saw Hong Kong's legendary boxing commentator K.S. Wai visiting the three pros and joining them to meet the media.
